RECOVER ONLY TEN BODIES

One Hundred Men Will Be Put to Work at Once on Ruins of Burned St. Louis Building to Clear Away the Wreckage So That the Bodies of the Victims May Be Recovered as Soon as Possible.

St. Louis, March 11.—Ten bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the seven-story building occupied by the Missouri Athletic club, which was destroyed by fire Monday morning.

Officials of the club, after entering the ruins and recovering officers' records, increased their estimates of the dead to forty-five persons. They could add no new names to the list of missing, however.

Mayor Kiel has ordered the building commissioner to hire 100 men to clear away the wreckage that the bodies of the dead may be recovered as soon as possible. The men will begin digging out the ruins under the direction of twenty-five bridge carpenters.

The city council ordered a full investigation of the fire with a view of fixing the responsibility. The inquiry will be conducted by a joint committee from both houses, with power to subpoena witnesses and take sworn testimony.

Another death resulted indirectly from the fire here when Mrs. Louis Vogt, twenty-five years old, died while reading accounts of the fire.

Days probably will elapse before the ruins, which fill the basement up to the first floor, are completely explored and it is feared that many of the bodies will never be recovered.

The shooting followed a quarrel between Taylor and the Beavers brothers. Taylor was shot five times and killed instantly. A. D. Beavers received a bullet in the abdomen, his brother was shot in the leg and Hickey, who had no part in the fight, received a thigh wound.

The car in which the shooting occurred was crowded with passengers.

BLAME LAID ON MEDICINE

Death of Seven Men Caused by Toxic Poisoning.

Los Angeles, March 11.—Toxic poisoning was the cause of the death of seven men who were treated for blood disease at the county hospital recently, according to a report submitted to the coroner.

The report named a medicine imported from Germany as "an irritant poison" which, after injection into the spinal cords of the men, had caused their deaths.

The medicine, after it had been reduced to a serum by the admixture of human blood, was administered to eight men patients at the county hospital last Saturday.

Three of the bandits waited outside while four entered. The cashier and a clerk were cowed with revolvers while the robbers seized a tray which had just been placed in the teller's cage.

UNDER SHERMAN
ANTI-TRUST ACTAttorney General Decides to Sue Tobacco Company.

DEALERS LOUDLY COMPLAIN

Allegations Are Made That the Metropolitan Tobacco Company of New York Discriminates Against Independent Dealers—Question of Criminal Prosecution of Concern's Officials Has Not Been Settled.

Washington, March 11.—Attorney General McReynolds decided to prepare a suit against the Metropolitan Tobacco company of New York under the Sherman anti-trust act.

The decision was based on evidence of alleged restraints of trade by the Metropolitan company laid before Mr. McReynolds by H. Snowden Marshall, United States district attorney at New York, and his assistant, C. A. Thompson, who has had charge of the investigation of the case.

The principal complaint against the Metropolitan company is alleged discrimination against independent tobacco dealers. The Metropolitan acts as the distributing agents for producing companies that made up the old tobacco "trust," and while it would be the principal defendant in any suit brought by the government the producing companies necessarily would be parties to the action.

The question of criminal prosecutions by the officials of the companies has not been settled.

The Metropolitan company has been under investigation by the department for several months. Independent dealers have charged that its grip on dealers in Greater New York, Long Island and New Jersey is firm and powerful and that they are in worse condition than before the supreme court ordered the dissolution of the old American Tobacco company.

According to Mr. Marshall's report investigation has shown that the Metropolitan company sells to independent jobbers at the same price it sells to retailers, so that jobbers are compelled if they handle Metropolitan goods to handle them at no profit at all.

EFFECT OF THE NEW TARIFF

Secretary of Commerce Says Imports Have Decreased.

Hartford, Conn., March 11.—William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce, addressing the State Business Men's association of Connecticut here, asked with a smile what had become of the threatened flooding of American markets with foreign made goods attracted by the new tariff schedules.

"All men are witnesses that the flooding of our markets with the products of the so called pauper labor of Europe has not taken place," he said. "The total imports for the entire period since the tariff came into effect are actually less than they were for a like period a year ago. What has become of the millions upon millions in value of goods waiting to be unloaded upon us whereby the power to purchase more cheaply was to bring disaster and distress upon American industries?"

FALLS A VICTIM TO DRUG

New York Physician Tried to Find Opium Cure.

New York, March 11.—While laboring to discover a cure for the opium smoking habit which many wealthy patients of his had contracted Dr. Herman Seidler fell a victim to the persuasion of the drug, according to his testimony in his own defense in the federal court, where he is charged with having manufactured smoking opium without a license. Dr. Seidler thus explained the finding of crude opium and pipes in his possession.

INDICTED FOR PLOT
TO MURDER JUDGETerre Haute Man Accused of Dynamite Conspiracy.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 11.—Bert W. Dickens, a carpenter, was arrested upon an indictment charging him with conspiracy to kill Judge Charles M. Fortune of the Vigo circuit court; Felix Blankenbaker, special judge hearing the election fraud cases, and Joseph Roach, special prosecutor in the fraud trials.

It is alleged in the indictments that Dickens entered into an agreement with persons not named to kill the three court officials either by throwing bombs at them or by placing dynamite under their homes.

A witness before the grand jury testified that an attempt to dynamite Judge Fortune's home Saturday night failed because of the presence of armed guards. At the time the attempt was made Judge Fortune and Prosecutor Roach were in Indianapolis appealing to Governor Ralston for state protection for witnesses and officials during the trial here next week of Mayor Roberts, who is charged with election frauds.

TRYING TO CHANGE
INAUGURAL DATEFierce March Weather Causes
Revival of Agitation.

AMENDMENT IS POSSIBLE.

Former President Taft, Witness Before Committee of Congress, in Making Known Views on Various Topics Surprised His Friends—Senator Fall Has Real State Rights Bill.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, March 11.—[Special.]—Almost as sure as the "equinoctial storm," which happens some time in September, there is also fierce weather when "March comes in like a lion," and it starts all Washington talking about changing the inaugural date.

It so happened on March 4 a year ago that the weather was comparatively mild and quite comfortable for the big parade and the show that accompanied the inauguration. Even the day before, when the women had their celebrated parade, it was comfortable, and it certainly had to be quite mild on account of the classic performance that was given on the plaza of the treasury, in which many women appeared in diaphanous costumes.

This year the early part of March was a truly "raging lion" in the matter of weather, and the people have determined that the inauguration date must be changed forthwith. Of course it requires a constitutional amendment, but, since the last two amendments were adopted, the people believe it is not so difficult to secure such amendments to the constitution.

Topic of Talk.

Always the constitution is a topic of talk in the senate. Just as sure as any kind of debate develops into questions on the constitution, then all of the constitutional lawyers rise up and have their say. Anybody who wants to get bills or resolutions through the senate should try to avoid all constitutional questions, for unlimited debate follows anything of that kind. Another topic that arouses a great deal of interest is the race question, coupled with denial of the right of the negroes to vote in the southern states. Any senator who wants to "start something" will toss in a little suggestion about the rights of negroes to vote in the south, and he gets results.

An Interesting Witness.

Usually a former president of the United States makes an interesting witness before a committee of congress. Former President Taft was no exception to that rule. Mr. Taft told some interesting things, however, which showed a different point of view than he is supposed to have held. For instance, he thought the terms of federal judges might be for fixed periods instead of for life and also pointed out the evils which grow up around courts in the way of employees, such as clerks and other officers, as well as the evil which occurs in the appointment of receivers of properties.

For Mr. Taft to criticize judges in that way was certainly a surprise, but a great many people realize that judges often appoint sons or sons-in-law or other relatives as clerks, and, as Mr. Taft said, "every lawyer knows what will happen to him if he complains about a clerk who belongs to the judge's family."

There has been in the past some rather severe criticism of judges, especially by the Progressive candidate for president in 1912, and former President Taft shows that they are only human after all.

A Real State Rights Bill.

Senator Fall has introduced a real state rights bill in the senate. It provides for granting all of the public lands in New Mexico to that state. Of course such a measure will not pass, because congress is rather jealous of its control of public lands. There are many states that would like to have all of the public lands within their borders in order to manage them as they choose, but the whole fight of conservation and the control by the general government of all national resources is involved in holding the public lands. If the government does not hold the public lands it cannot have anything to do with the resources.

Long and Short Haul.

The most troublesome thing in transportation is the long and short haul. Again the fight is being renewed to prohibit absolutely a lesser charge for a long haul than for a short haul between points. The whole intermountain region is interested in this, because there is not a point west of the Missouri river and east of the Pacific coast that has not suffered by having to pay a higher rate for freight than do the people living at points farther on. Every time an interstate commerce bill is presented in congress this fight is brought up with renewed interest, but so far the coast states have had the advantage because of the competition of water rates, which mean the rates around Cape Horn and across the isthmus of Panama.

Rural Carriers Win.

As was generally expected, the rural carriers have been able to secure an increase in salaries, and they will now receive $1200 per year. They started at $900, which shows what persistence and good organization will do. Rural carriers are a great political power.

Mrs. Pankhurst Confident She Will Gain Release.

London, March 11.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst once more is a hunger striking prisoner in Holloway jail, but she is confident she will obtain her release in a few days under the "cat and mouse" law.

By stopping the Scotch express, on which Mrs. Pankhurst was brought from Glasgow after her arrest in that city, and compelling the militant leader to alight at a small way station outside of London, the police succeeded in eluding swarms of militant suffragettes who were waiting her arrival in the city railroad station.

MICHIGAN STRIKE
HEARINGS CLOSEOperators and Miners Will Soon
Prepare Briefs.

Chicago, March 11.—Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, told the congressional committee investigating the Michigan copper miners' strike of his deportation from the mining district last December.

Three men, he said, came to his hotel room in Hancock on the night of his deportation. They asked him if he would receive a large committee of citizens and an agreeing to this, Moyer said, fifteen or eighteen more men entered the room.

They asked him if he would permit the citizens to contribute to the relief of the survivors of the Christmas eve disaster at Italian hall.

Moyer said he replied that he had not told the members of the federation they should not accept outside help in caring for their dead, but said the families felt they ought not to and that he would not advise them to accept relief contributed by those outside the federation.

Moyer then went into a long detailed account of his assault and deportation.

When Moyer was excused Chairman Taylor announced that the hearings were concluded and that the strikers and operators would be given fifteen days within which to submit briefs after they received copies of the printed testimony.

EASTMAN COMPANY LOSES

Court Decides Minister Invented
Photographic Films.

New York, March 11.—A decision upholding the patent claims of Rev. Hannibal B. Goodwin against the Eastman Kodak company of Rochester, involving millions of dollars in royalties, was handed down by the United States circuit court of appeals here, confirming the opinion previously handed down by Judge John R. Hazel of Buffalo.

The decision says that "the Rev. Hannibal B. Goodwin is undoubtedly the inventor and entitled to all the benefits of the basic patent on photographic films."

Goodwin died more than thirteen years ago a poor man. The profits of the Eastman Kodak company on the disputed patent have been estimated to run into the millions.

Senate Takes Final Action on Alaskan Railway Measure.

Washington, March 11.—The Alaskan railway bill, providing for the construction of a thousand miles of government railroad and the expenditure of $35,000,000 was made ready for the president's signature when the senate adopted the conference report already adopted by the house.

President Wilson has indicated his intention of signing the bill as soon as it reaches the White House and tentative plans for constructing the first government railroad already have been considered at the interior department. Secretary Lane, long an advocate of the project, is prepared to go ahead with it as soon as the president gives the word.

Elections in Many Minnesota Villages and Towns.

INTEREST IN LIQUOR QUESTION

Aside From Holding Most of the Municipalities on the Dry List the Anti-Saloon Forces Capture a Number From the Wet Column—Vote So Close in Some Places Contests Will Likely Result.

St. Paul, March 11.—In the face of returns from towns and villages in Minnesota which voted on the liquor question the prohibition forces won a victory. Aside from holding a majority of the towns which had been dry heretofore the "drys" captured a number from the wet list.

Rev. G. B. Safford of Minneapolis, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, said that the result is due to the campaign work of that organization, which has been busy in the state for more than a year. Speakers have been sent to every town in which the license proposition was to be submitted, he said. The capture of Black Duck and other towns of the north, the population of which is made up mostly of woodsmen, is regarded as the greatest victory by the anti-liquor forces. These towns heretofore had been wet.

It is expected that in some places where the vote was close the result will be contested. At Eyota the prohibition forces won out by a majority of one. The same margin was tallied at Truman. Last year the vote at Truman was a tie. Garfield came from the wet column with a majority of two. Black Duck went dry by ninety-nine majority, fifty-five votes being cast for license.

St. Paul Park remains dry by a majority of sixty-three. At Dilworth a number who signed petitions for submission withdrew their names and there was no election.

The license question was not submitted at White Bear and North St. Paul.

With Pequot, Backus and La Porte voting dry Walker is the only town on the Minnesota and International railway between Brainerd and Bemidji that has saloons.

In all cases where the license proposition was submitted it overshadowed any other issue in the elections. At Arlington the proposition to float bonds of $14,000 to build a water works carried by six votes.

Minneapolis Iron Worker Asks
Marshal for Orders.

Minneapolis, March 11.—Charles N. Beum of Minneapolis will deliver himself at Fort Leavenworth prison to serve a three-year sentence for conspiracy in the transportation of dynamite. He wired the United States marshal at Indianapolis that he would save that official the trouble of coming to Minneapolis.

"I will report to Leavenworth whenever you order," read the telegram. Meanwhile Beum's friends have rallied to his aid and started circulating petitions asking President Woodrow Wilson to review his case and if possible to pardon Beum.

The time of Beum's return to prison is uncertain. It depends on a mandate of the United States district court at Indianapolis.

"I have little to say except to thank the public, my bondsmen and the newspapers for fair treatment and to reaffirm my innocence of the charge against me," said Beum.

PREUS FAVORS A BOARD OF APPEAL

To Which Those Insured May Appeal if Necessary, From Ratings Made by Rate Bureau

SPEAKS OF WORK OF INS. DEPT.

Commercial Club Members and Others Hear the State Insurance Commissioner's Address

In this address on fire insurance and fire prevention and reforms urged given by Insurance Commissioner J. A. O. Preus, of St. Paul, at the meeting of the Commercial club members and others at the club rooms Tuesday evening, Mr. Preus expressed himself as favoring a board of appeals to which those insured may appeal, if necessary, from the ratings made by the rate bureau. At present the rating bureau is supreme.

All insurance companies operating in the state, said Mr. Preus, are under the supervision of the state insurance department. Not one became insolvent in the last three years.

Mr. Preus was appropriately introduced to the assemblage by Carl Zapffe, president of the Commercial club.

Fire losses in America had been so great in recent years that people of the United States were becoming aroused about the condition of things said Mr. Preus. In 1907 the federal government had a commission investigating the question and comparing conditions with Europe, and to see further if the proverbial carelessness of American people was the main cause of so many fires. The investigating committee discovered that in 1906 the property destroyed by fire in this country amounted to $215,000,000. This was an amount greater than had been expended for fire protection and fire prevention. It did not include the loss of time and labor which went with the property loss.

"A half billion dollars is annually lost to American people by fire," said Mr. Preus emphatically. That amount, said he, was equal to one-third the assessed valuation of the state of Minnesota or of South Dakota. It meant losing $5 a place for every inhabitant, should the loss be spread on the people like a poll tax. The per capita fire loss in France was only 92 cents, in Norway 25 cents, Germany 19 cents. The average per capita loss in Europe was 33 cents. The United States had an average fire loss per capita at least eight times that of Europe. Annually more money was spent in this country for fire protection and fire prevention than the fire losses amount to.

The greatest reason for fires in this country was carelessness. Sixty-five per cent of the fires were due to this. The American people seemed to be naturally careless. This same characteristic had been shown in the policy regarding forests, in the habits of the people.

A cigarette fire in New York city, wherein a careless worker threw a lighted cigarette in the corner of the shop where clothing was manufactured, fired the big building and burned up 137 people. Had that man lived in Germany he would have been jailed for criminal carelessness, said Mr. Preus.

Such a disaster would be impossible in Germany, where such inflammable structures are prohibited.

Some think the fire insurance companies pay the fiddler when there are losses. This is not so, said Mr. Preus. The insurance company is simply the trustee of the policy holders. You and I pay the losses, said Mr. Preus. The company is simply the trustee of the policy holders and your payments and my premiums paid in go towards equalizing the loss or misfortunes of the insured man whose home or store is burned. The more fires there were, the more money was taken for rates.

"People have complained to me of fire insurance rates," said the insurance commissioner, "but never of fire losses."

Incendiaries were in this country and a great many were not prosecuted because public sentiment was not behind the movement.

"Spontaneous combustion," said Mr. Preus, "has sometimes been defined as a reaction between over-insurance and a light stock resulting in fire."

It was very easy to start a fire. In state institutions patients had carelessly thrown rags steeped in oils about and in a few hours they blazed. The fire insurance companies, said he, made more money with high rates and big fires than in times of small fires and small losses.

Fire destroyed so much energy, just so much visualized energy. He mentioned the agency system as something that could be improved. They made 20 per cent of the premiums taken in. Many, and there were 14,000 agents in the state, were intent only on getting their share of the premiums and having no financial interest in the companies they represented, many did not take proper risks or precautions.

He mentioned the work of the inspection company in Minnesota which made the rates on property. Formerly each company had made its own rates. They found this cost too much. Mr. Preus wanted no competition in insurance rates. An insurance company he regarded in large measure as a public service corporation.

Later Walter I. Fisher made the rates based on the experiences of the various companies. The rates were based strictly on physical hazards. Mr. Preus then mentioned his preference for a board of appeals to pass on disputed rates. He referred to the rating laws of Missouri and Kansas. Judge Pollock had held that a state had the right to fix insurance rates.

The state of Wisconsin supplied fire and life insurance and had but 300 policy holders. Nobody ever took life insurance unless some persistent agent convinced a man to take it. The state of Wisconsin had no solicitors in the field, and consequently the state's business in that line was not growing. The Equitable Insurance company of London was the oldest and also the smallest insurance company. It had no agents doing business by mail.

Fire insurance, on the other hand, made different progress than life insurance. Few arguments were needed from the agent to convince a man to take a fire insurance policy. Mr. Preus mentioned that when the state went into competition with a private corporation it always lost out. And the next step taken then would be compulsory insurance. He explained features of the workmen's compensation law.

He pleaded for clean basements and the keeping of property in such shape that the owner would be entitled to a reduction in rates. The people in Brainerd did not generally avail themselves of the co-insurance clause. This clause provided that where the property was insured 80 per cent there would be a reduction of 20 per cent in rates, the minimum being $5,000.

Mr. Preus closed with a talk on life insurance. The amount of insurance carried by a man should be coordinated with his income, his family and his wealth. People generally did not buy life insurance unless forced. Very few people were over-insured.

Mr. Preus' address proved interesting and thought-compelling and after the meeting he met informally a large number of his audience and chatted with them on many subjects concerning insurance. His mastery of this subject and his willingness to impart advice or information pleased his auditors and made him many friends in Brainerd.

SHRINERS TO VISIT THE GRAND

Members of Adzhulm Club and Their Ladies to Visit Performance on Thursday Night

"THE SHRINERS AT FARGO"

A Special Film Booked—Mrs. Clyde Parker Will Give Pianologue, "The New Baby"

The Shriners of the Adzhulm club and their ladies will visit the Grand on Thursday evening and witness the second performance. For that night the Grand has booked a special feature film entitled, "The Shriners at Fargo," and no doubt the Brainerd Shriners will recognize some of their Fargo brothers in this feature picture.

Special music will be rendered by the Grand orchestra under the direction of that talented violinist, Emil Tuseth. Selections from Tannhauser will be given on this occasion.

Mrs. Clyde Parker will give a pianologue, "The New Baby," of her own composition, and pianoforte selections (arranged by herself) and assisted by the Grand orchestra. Mrs. Parker is a talented musician and this is a very rare occasion on which she will be heard. In Chicago Mrs. Parker, as Miss Dorothy Humes, was known to all the Orpheum circuit managers as the Queen of the ragtime players and the young lady who could play with one hand better ragtime than others played with two.

After the performance the Shriners will adjourn to their club rooms where they will enjoy the rest of the evening.

The funeral of O. O. Groven, deceased, will be held from the 7th street Lutheran church tomorrow, Thursday, afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The work is to be carried on in orchards where trees may be pruned, top grafted, or sprayed. No one should sign a petition unless willing to assist in doing the actual work himself. The petitions should be sent in at once.

LARGE THEATRE PARTY

Columbia Theatre Entertained the Visiting Odd Fellows This Afternoon, 300 Present

The Columbia theatre this afternoon entertained 300 visiting Odd Fellows from all sections of central Minnesota at a matinee performance commencing at 2:30. Edwin Harris Bergh repeated the young man, "Love's Old Sweet Song," by request. The three reel western drama, "The Lost Treasure," the mystery of the Cripple Creek gold regions, was displayed and pleased the audience. Two comedies kept them in good humor. The Norwegian and Swedish music was given its first hearing and those present of Scandinavian parentage, felt their pulses quickened when the old, folk melodies were rendered with inimitable charm and feeling, transporting them back to the loved scenes of their childhood. Supt. A. V. Brown Takes Cognizance of the Act of Charles Hughes in Saving Lives

Charles Hughes, who carries the mail between the depot and the post office, treasures this letter received from A. V. Brown, superintendent of the Lake Superior division, wherein the company takes cognizance of his act in saving the lives of two passengers, who had inadvertently stepped in the path of an approaching train hidden in clouds of steam from a neighboring engine. Hughes had no time to call out a warning. He leaped at the two passengers and bowled them off the track as the fast train shot in. The letter received states:

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 23, 1914. Re: Service rendered by Chas. Hughes Mr. G. W. Mosier, Agent, Brainerd.

Dear Sir: Referring to our recent correspondence concerning mail carrier Chas. Hughes probably saving the lives of a couple of men at Brainerd on February 12th by presence of mind to get them off of the track before passenger train struck them. I wish you would please say to Mr. Hughes that the management, as well as myself, appreciate prompt action on his part which probably saved lives as reported, and these papers will be placed with his personal record.

Yours truly, A. V. BROWN, Superintendent.

UNLICENSED DRINKING PLACE

Angvik is Fined $50 and Costs on Each Charge by Judge W. S. McClenahan

Ole Angvik, of Riverton, who appeared before Judge W. S. McClenahan in district court chambers, was before the court on two charges, that of selling liquor without a license and of keeping an unlicensed drinking place.

Under the first charge he was sentenced to pay $50 fine and costs and 30 days in jail, but execution of the jail sentence in this case was suspended because Angvik had already been in jail 40 days or more.

In the other case Angvik was fined $50 and costs or 30 days in jail. He paid his fine and costs in both cases.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

At the Grand

Tonight a two-reel drama "The Dread Inheritance" featuring that well known actor, J. Warren Kerrigan, the highest salaried man in the picture world.

"Slim, the Outlaw," is a comedy and chock full of laughs.

"Their Little Ones" is another comedy featuring that side-splitting comedian, Marc Asher.

The Grand orchestra under the direction of that able violinist, Emil Tuseth, will render selection and rags that fit the pictures to the letter. The Grand has undoubtedly one of the finest orchestras in the state and will render music that will please every nationality.

At The Columbia

This popular photo play theatre has booked for today and tomorrow a real Western thriller. The play originally appeared in book form and was written by Alfred Simod. The plot as carried out by the movies make a far more interesting and realistic story. It comes in 3 reels. Friday night is "Ladies night" at the Columbia. Read their ad for full particulars.

The Broadway Players

"The Little White Slave" was greeted by a well filled house last night. The play is a strong one and was well presented by the Broadway Players. Miss Florence Gordon and Bert Bence were exceptionally good in their respective parts. The acting of Miss Gordon was above criticism and would do credit to any dollar and a half attraction. "The Game," a western comedy drama will be presented tonight. Plenty of comedy, good specialties, a play new to Brainerd and a real company of actors ought to pack the opera house.

We have just received our new line of Children's Wash Dresses. They are made even prettier than you expect and the cost is most popular. Let us show you.

SPOT LIGHT IS ON HISTORIC FAIRFAX

Virginia In Fight to Regain Martha Washington Will.

INSISTS MORGAN GIVE IT UP

Testament Cut From the Records of Fairfax County During Civil War and Discovered in Father's Library Six Years Ago Is Prized Beyond Price in the Old Dominion.

The stage is being set for a bitter battle between the state of Virginia and J. Pierpont Morgan in Virginia's avowed intention of recovering "at all costs" the will of Martha Washington, which was stolen from the records of Fairfax county, Va., during the civil war. This historical document is in the possession of the New York financier, who has declined to accede to the request of the state that he surrender it.

Representative Charles C. Carlin, who represents the Fairfax district, has come forward to aid the state and county officials to recover the will.

"The people of Virginia are aroused over this matter," said the congressman recently. "The will is ours, and we are going to have it restored to where it belongs."

"Virginia will recover the will of Martha Washington at all costs," declared Crandall Mackey, commonwealth attorney for Alexandria county. "Until Mr. Morgan persisted in his refusal to return the will to the archives from which it was purloined the fight was one between him and the people of Fairfax county, to whom the document belongs, but now it has become a state wide question."

Will Lost For Fifty Years.

The will of Martha Washington, wife of the first president of the United States, was cut from the records of Fairfax county while the war between the states was raging in that part of Virginia. Virginians believe that one of General McDowell's soldiers carried off the Martha Washington will along with other records, but how it got into Mr. Morgan's possession no one seems to be able to guess.

For more than fifty years the people of Fairfax county have searched for the Martha Washington will, which they prized very highly as a relic. Not long ago some one who saw the will among Mr. Morgan's collection notified a friend in Fairfax, and an effort was made to have the document returned to where Virginians say it rightfully and legally belongs.

Mrs. John S. Harbour, regent of the Falls Church (Va.) chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, acting for her organization, wrote and asked Mr. Morgan to return the will, which, she said, had been "taken from the records of Fairfax county, Va."

An unfavorable reply was received from Mr. Morgan's librarian.

Futile Appeals to Elder Morgan.

The report that the Washington will was in the Morgan collection first was heard six years ago. Several letters were sent to the elder Morgan, but he never replied to any of them, so it is said.

After his death the Fairfax people became interested in the will again. The Daughters of the American Revolution and the Falls Church chapter joined forces in an effort to recover the testament. When gentleman means failed it was decided to enlist the aid of the state.

The suit planned to recover the will is unique in that the state of Virginia sues an individual before the supreme court of the United States. It is one of the few instances where a state has sued a citizen in the supreme court.

Ferdinand D. Richardson, father of the present clerk of Fairfax county, was clerk of the county when the will was taken.

Mrs. Washington's estate at the time the will was made was one of the largest in the south.

Unwatched Men Are Honest.

There are restaurants downtown where thousands of men are put on their honor every week. They go into these luncheon rooms, select the food they wish, eat it and when they pass out pay the cashier whatever they want to.

"Do these men cheat?" I asked the proprietors of two such places.

"Not more than once in 200 times does anybody pay us too little," said one of them. "The loss is so trifling it is not worth while bothering about, let alone watching."

"The money we lose," said the other manager, "doesn't amount to a dollar a week."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Gravestone Blunder.

"A typographical error in a newspaper is bad enough," quoted a genealogist who has been inspecting some ancient gravestones in the old North Dorchester burying ground, "but it hasn't the time defying persistency of an error in stone, such, for example, as I noted in an inscription in this old cemetery as follows:

"In memory of Mrs. Sarah Davis, who departed life April 11, 1790, in the eighty-eighth year of his age."

It is curious that such an error could have escaped the attention of the engraver, of the husband and of all others who must have seen the stone in those early days.—Boston Post.

Shooting Galleries In Public Schools.

Because of the casualty list among hunters the Racine County (Wis.) Farmers' Protective association will petition the legislature for laws to provide that shooting galleries be established in every city school for girls and boys between fourteen and sixteen; that no license be issued to any one who cannot read and understand it.

A DARING PATRIOT

Feats of a Little Known Hero of Revolutionary Times.

JACK JOWETT'S BRAVE RACE.

It Saved Jefferson and the Virginia Assembly From Capture by Tarleton's Dragoons and Gave General Washington Valuable Information.

Most of the Revolutionary heroes have been immortalized in song or story, but there is one whose fame has never spread, as it should, beyond the region of his birth. His name was Jack Jowett. In the little city of Charlottesville, Va., there is a tablet on the building that stands on the site of his old tavern. But that simple bronze is the only memorial of his name and deeds.

In Revolutionary days young Jack Jowett kept the Swan tavern in Charlottesville. He was a patriot at a time when patriotism was dangerous, for Cornwallis was in possession of tide-water Virginia, and Tarleton and his cavalry were sweeping back and forth over the inland counties.

In June, 1781, the Virginia assembly abandoned Richmond, which Cornwallis threatened, and came to sit in Charlottesville. Among its members were such men as Patrick Henry, Richard Henry Lee and Benjamin Harrison, and the governor was no other than Thomas Jefferson. One bright morning when the state assembly was in session Jack mounted his thoroughbred mare and rode out to look over his farm outside the town. As he rode along he caught through the trees a glimpse of a British uniform flashing down a crossroad. He put his horse over the low stone wall and confronted the rider. It was one of Tarleton's troopers.

With a big pistol pointed at his head, the Englishman thought it wise to obey Jack's command to turn in at the gate of a nearby house and change clothing with him. Under threat of death the soldier divulged the fact that Tarleton was in the vicinity. Jowett at once galloped away in search of the enemy. The day passed without result, and Jack stopped at an inn to take a few hours' rest.

In the night he heard the tramp of horses and, looking out of his window, saw that the yard was full of British soldiers, led by Tarleton himself. The troopers entered the tavern and sat down to drink and talk, quite unconscious that an enemy was on the stair above listening to every word. From their conversation Jowett learned that Tarleton commanded an advance guard that was halting to wait for the rest of the troop. Then they planned to dash on to Charlottesville and capture the Virginia assembly.

Jack Jowett set out at once in the cool of the dawn. Once he was chased by some troopers who trotted in from the pike that crossed his path, but his bay mare soon outpaced theirs. Like the wind he raced through lanes, over low stone fences, up the side of the hill to beautiful Monticello, the home of Governor Jefferson. He warned Jefferson of the approach of the British, and then, with a fresh horse, he dashed down the steep mountain road into Charlottesville. Rushing into the hall where the assembly was in session, he called to the members to flee, for Tarleton's dragoons would soon be at their heels. In a few moments the hall was empty, and the members were on their way across the mountains to Staunton, where they would be safe from pursuit.

Jack rode on to his tavern, but found there a wounded officer of the Continental army—General Stevens. He dressed the sick man in a suit of his own clothes, carried him downstairs and put him on the fresh horse, with bags of corn in front and behind—the very picture of an old farmer going to the mill. Side by side Jowett and Stevens rode out of town, which by 10 o'clock was in the possession of Tarleton's men. Pausing as he reached the top of a hill, Jack saw his own tavern in flames.

The British, who had reason to suspect the young man in a uniform, set out in chase of him, but Jack's horse was again too speedy for them, and he got safely away to Washington with the news that Tarleton was no longer acting in support of Cornwallis—a bit of information that was of the great value to the commander of the Continental army.

To Jack Jowett's quick wit and daring the author of the Declaration of Independence and many another hardly less famous patriot owed their liberty and perhaps their escape from a traitor's death upon the scaffold.—Youth's Companion.

The Perfect Day.

There is, perhaps, one such day in every one's life. It is seldom more—when the whole world seems to hang in a nebulous light, when nothing is quite real or quite certain, when the entire universe might be a bubble to break with touching, when one is beyond one's body, all pure soul, when everything—even the birds in their bursts of song and sudden silences, the flowers, the clouds—conspires for perfection. Such moments come only when one human spirit first touches another and vanish, or at least are transmuted, with the first kiss, the first spoken word of love.—From "Simpson," by Ellnor Mordaunt.

RIGHT LIVING.

It is well to have visions of a better life than that of every day, but it is the life of every day from which elements of a better life must come. Let your everyday life be free from wrongdoing. To do wrong is to inflict the surest injury on our own peace. No enemy can do us equal harm with what we do ourselves whenever and however we violate any moral or religious obligation.

"Do you know where his house is?"

The aged negro chuckled. "'Deed I do, boss," he said. "I only wisht I had as many dollahs as I knows where dat house is."—Lippincott's.

CHILDREN HATE OIL.

CALOMEL AND PILLS

"California Syrup of Figs" best for

Tender Stomach, Liver, Bowels

—Tastes Delicious

Look back at your childhood days.

Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics.

How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different.

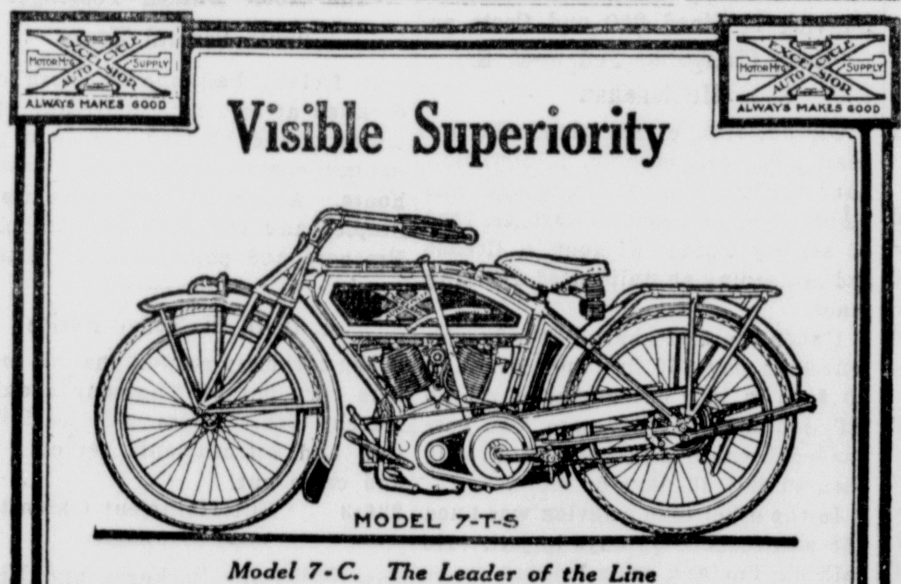

Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do.

The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs."

Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv't.
